Still Begging the Question.

To the Editors: Convinced of the weakness of its cause, and well assured of the defeat of all the attempts of those for whom it speaks to deprive the people of Jackson county of their inalienable right to declare and dictate where the seat of local justice shall be located, the Brownstown Banner continues to beg the question, by the assertion that certain means were used to secure the passage of a law, that bears the official stamp of both houses of the general assembly, that has the indorsement of the governor, and the fullest support of all the courts of the state. This week, the Banner says:

"Let every man in Jackson county, who believes in just laws, honest legislation and equal rights to all, take a firm stand against removing the county seat under the present obnoxious law. A vote for removal means that you favor corrupt and unjust legislation. No one dares to dispute the fact that corrupt means were used to secure the passage of the bill, and that it lacked a constitutional majority."

Another wall from the organ—brought with a price and paid according to space measure—of the obstructionists, whose only aim is to defeat the will of the majority of the people, and whose chosen means to that end in an open defiance of the law and a flagrant disregard of the rulings of the courts. The plea that "a vote for removal means that you favor corrupt and unjust legislation" is very far fetched, out of date and based by legal limitations. A vote for removal means—and it can mean nothing else—the free and fair and honest assertion of the independent voter, of his belief in the right of a majority of the people to decide without reference to sectional claims of purely personal interests, where the seat of justice can be best located "for the greatest good of the greatest number."

What An Observer Notes.

In passing over the Rockford, Jonesville and Waymansville gravel road a few days ago, I observed one teamster hauling not gravel, but dirt and sand, about a half yard at a load, to repair the damage done to the road by the high water nearly six months ago. Observed also that, even though some of the washed-out wooden bridges were replaced by trail iron bridges which are entirely too light in construction to be substantial, the approaches to them which could have been made months ago at small expense have been so far entirely neglected. Are not the taxpayers of Redding township entitled to more consideration than this? Whose duty is it to look after this matter?

POLITICAL BREVITIES.

The Indianapolis [republicans have named all their candidates for city officers.

R. E. Mansfield, secretary of the state republican central committee, and C. H. Bandy, of Muncie, have purchased the Marion Morning News.

John A. Sullivan, the knocked-out pugilist, has announced that he will be an independent candidate for Mayor of Boston. He wants to get even with the present democratic mayor who refused to shake hands with him on a public occasion.

There is a class of people. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over 1 cent. Children may drink it with great safety, etc. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

The Klondyke Gold Fields.

Are now attracting the attention of the whole world, and the results of placer and quartz mining are fully equal to the finds of the nuggets in the early California days and extraordinary inducements are being offered to prospectors, practical miners and investors. By next spring the gold fever will have taken possession of thousands of people, and the western roads will have all they can do to transport the fortune hunters.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, and its connecting lines, offer the best facilities for reaching Alaska gold regions.

MARCHESI METHODS.

HOW THE GREAT TEACHER TERRORIZES HER SCHOLARS.

Instructions in Singing From Her Not Altogether an Agreeable Ordeal—But She Conscientiously Labors Always For Her Pupil's Benefit.

In the musical world of Europe no teacher stands higher than Mme. Marchesi, and yet a first interview with her is an ordeal to be dreaded. She may tell you with almost brutal frankness that your cherished vocal projects are thin as air bubbles and that you had better turn your attention to cooking. Or, with one unusual gleam of her gray eyes and one sudden withdrawn breath, making her thin lips still thinner, she may tell you that you are destined to lift the heart of the world in immortal song and wear the laurels of a great lyric career. Again, she may tell you with the same blunt severity that you have no looks at all for the stage, and after you have been accepted as a pupil you are still subjected to her merciless severity.

To be taught by Mme. Marchesi is not to have the luxury of an individual lesson, an hour's good, cozy, comfortable time to yourself. By no means. That is not her plan. You are taught in class. You are thus introduced at once to an audience. You thus have an opportunity of conquering stage fright. You are thus subjected to the criticism of others. Not only your voice, but your manners, your gait, your way of holding your hands are studied. From head to foot you are scrutinized.

A small platform is in the center of Marchesi's salon, where the pupil stands and recites (or sings) her lesson. The class sit around the room and criticize. The pupil has to face not only the class, but the audience includes often the first musicians of the world. How does a sensitive woman bear the gun fire of her sarcasm and severity? One day one of the class was having her 15 minutes of lesson before a crowded room. Marchesi was in a sardonic humor that morning. Her remarks were brilliant, but more cutting than a Damascus blade. The audience felt that a climax was coming. It came. The girl's lip began to tremble as Marchesi's commentary sparkled and cut and sparkled again. Her lip trembled more and more. The agitation gained upon her whole body, till she shook like a willow in the wind. Poor dear, the other pupils held their breath. The room was silent as a tomb. You could hear Marchesi's watch tick in her pocket. Still the pupil strove to bring out the tone that those severe lips of Marchesi had commanded. At last the voice rolled out. The tone gained upon the room. The voice stopped.

"You sing like a fool!" literally hissed Marchesi, and the storm broke. The girl burst into tears. Her sobs, coming upon the silence, were most painful. Not one of the pupils dared to rush forward with comfort or handkerchief. The girl threw the sheet of music on the floor and covered her face with her hands. Then, dashing the tears away from her face, she stooped down, gathered up the scattered music, tore it into shreds, tossed it to every part of the room, and rushed from the platform stage. All felt it was over with her forever, so far as lessons with Marchesi were concerned, and more than one heart ached for her.

"Ha, ha!" laughed Marchesi, rising delighted from the piano, rubbing her hands together and walking, or rather stalking, majestically through the room and up and down and again seating herself at the piano. "Ha, ha! That girl will sing! She has the grand fire. She is dramatic. She has the fine passion of the devil." And the girl came back the next day and won Marchesi's bravos and hand clapping.

Upon another occasion Marchesi sat in judgment upon a pupil's hands as she stood upon the platform.

"Now, don't put up your lip like a baby," she says, "if I tell you that I never saw such a baby. You're as awkward as a country clown. Look at your hands! Just look at them dangling down at your sides like a jumping jack waiting to twitch on a pole. Mais, vois-tu," she continued, softening a little, "if I do not tell you, you are of these things now while you are in my class, do you know who will tell you of them later on when you stand for the first time before one of the great musicians of Europe? The reporters will flay you alive and deservedly. Will they not note down every awkward gesture, every gaucheerie? Will they not say, 'She has a divine voice, but she held her hands like a clown? And when you read it in all the papers the next morning, ah, how you will exclaim, 'Why did not Marchesi correct me, tell me, reprove me, no matter how severely?' Now, hold your hands easily, one palm crossed upon the other, the right hand across the left, the forefinger and middle finger of the right hand between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand. Bon! Now, see what ease of position, what repose it gives to your whole figure as you stand there."

To look over the programme for the concerts Mme. Marchesi gives from time to time is to read a strange collection of names. Here are pupils from Japan. Here is a name from Norway. Here is a lady from Finland. Here are sturdy Scotch names. Here are American names—girls from St. Louis, San Francisco, the Maine woods, the Gulf states. New Zealand has representatives on the programme. To look over Marchesi's album is to see some of the portraits of the world's great singers and their signatures.—New York Sun.

THE MAGNETISM THAT THERE IS IN THE PROFESSION.

Why Crowsa Didn't Print a Paper—Edwin Arnold's Love of the Calling—Chauncey Depew and His "Jollies"—A Tired Lot of Reporters.

I like to brag about newspaper men who have done good work, because the men themselves don't like it. For one newspaper man to chant the praises of others of his craft is considered "taboo," and the very fact of its being tabooed makes it exceptionally tempting at times, so frail are we all. The proper professional attitude for a newspaper man—according to convention—is that of being always slightly bored and of hating above all things to see his own or another newspaper man's name in print. As to being in love with his profession—well, that's all right for a new hand just from college, but now—rats! Don't you believe a word about newspaper work making genuine newspaper men tired. They couldn't keep away from it if they tried. If Robinson Crusoe had been a newspaper man, he would have printed a daily edition of the Juan Fernandez Castaway in blunt stick type on the sand in front of his hut every morning and got out an extra when he captured Friday.

And it must be that age and rank and station don't serve to numb this feeling. When Sir Edwin Arnold happened to be in St. Louis a few years ago, a sudden crisis in India—Russians and Englishmen glaring at each other across the rugged crests of the Pamirs, the "Roof of the World"—made an interview with him of especially timely value. It came into my day's work to see him, and at the close of the interview he fell to talking about the incidental phases of a possible Russo-English war.

"Should such a war be declared," said Sir Edwin, "I would instantly go to the front for my paper"—the London Telegraph—"and serve as a special correspondent. It is the most fascinating work in the profession, and there is none more fascinating outside."

And a moment later the English poet and newspaper editor was telling me that he considered James Whitcomb Riley the most distinctively national of living American poets, and that to him mind Riley owed much of this to the fact that he was a "newspaper poet," instead of a magazine poet.

If I only had Dr. Chauncey M. Depew here to join in this talk about newspaper men, then you'd begin to realize what fine fellows they really are. Dr. Depew couldn't live without newspaper men. They visit him in his private office in the New York headquarters of the New York Central railroad, and they laugh at the jokes in his after dinner speeches and boom him for the presidency of the United States and for anything else he may desire simply because they like him and he likes them. The first and only time I ever saw Dr. Depew was at the Republican national convention of 1892 in Minneapolis, whither Dr. Depew repaired as one of the "Big Four" of that very lively convention. He was surrounded six deep by newspaper correspondents—facing them, tall and irreproachably groomed, looking for all the world like the swell old heavy father in "The Banker's Daughter," and giving out all the news he consistently could, I suppose. And when he had exhausted his budget for the time being he turned in and gave them a "Depew jolly" of the press which was really a daisy in its line. Of course I'm not going to tell you what he said, because, honestly, it was a bit steep, but I just want to give you an idea that I would be greatly reinforced in this talk if I could have Dr. Depew here to take a hand in it.

Talking of conventions and bearing in mind my already expressed disbelief in the possibility of a newspaper man's ever getting tired of newspaper work, I want to make a kind of exception. The tidiest lot of newspaper men I ever saw was at the close of the famous all night session of the Democratic national convention of that same year—1892—in Chicago. It was the night of the great anti-Cleveland fight made by Tammany in the last ditch; the night when Bourke Cockran made the greatest speech of his life; the night when such an orator as Daniel of Virginia was hooted from the platform because the convention was actually too exhausted to listen; the night when Cleveland was nominated. With one recess, if I am not mistaken, the convention remained in session from 10 o'clock one morning until 4 o'clock the next. It was a really session, too, and kept correspondents of the alert every moment. Bourke Cockran's speech against Cleveland was made about 2:30 in the morning, and a dying man would have been forced to listen and thrill at its eloquent invective and masterly sarcasm. But after that came the awful slump of utter weariness. When the convention adjourned, day had broken over Chicago and the streets were gray in its early light. White faced and limp, the corps of special correspondents almost staggered out and made their sleep blind way to their respective hotels. Tired? Yes, but it was as a soldier is tired in the trenches. A few hours' sleep and the fight would be resumed as gallantly as ever.—R. D. Saunders in St. Louis Republic.

Confidence Restored as Evidenced by Industrial Activity.

Thursday the REPUBLICAN had something to say of the business revival as evinced in Seymour. All could not be told in one issue, so what has been said will be supplemented from time to time. The people generally know that times are better and only a few permit their politics to stand in the way of their saying so.

The contractors and builders who have keenly felt the hard times the past few years, are feeling better over the present situation and the outlook for the future.

The Travis Carter Company, which has a wide reputation, is employing more than thirty men in the mill and on outside building contracts.

Anton Massman is working a full force of men at his planing mill and on buildings he is constructing.

The Cordes Flouring Mill is running full time, and Mr. Cordes is finding a ready market for all his mill produces.

The coopers of the city are having a better business than they have had for a long time.

The farmers and market gardeners are doing better than for several years. The farmer can sell what he produces this year at a better price than he has been able to do for some time. The growers of nutmegs are specially pleased with the results of the season. They have disposed of their crop at a price which has made them a nice profit. So it seems that all classes are feeling the impulse of better times.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

John R. McLean's Great Newspaper.

Without a single exception, there is beyond doubt no greater or more popular newspaper in the United States than the Cincinnati Enquirer; or a more successful publisher than its proprietor, Mr. John R. McLean. The old-time prices for the Daily Enquirer have been maintained, and its circulation largely increased each year; hard times and cheaper journals failing to arrest its onward march and high appreciation of the public for its true worth and merit.

The Weekly Enquirer at beginning of the campaign year was offered at 50 cents a year, and its circulation increased by the addition of over 100,000 new subscribers; the most substantial and coveted testimonial a publisher could desire.

When asked for the secret of such success, Mr. McLean frankly answers: The Enquirer has no opinions to force upon its patrons, it simply prints the facts and tells the truth that the reader may form his own opinions. By maintaining the price of the paper, more news and greater variety can be furnished, and every class of business interests catered to, which a cheaper journal cannot afford.

The very liberal support given the Enquirer by the public at large, makes incumbent upon the management to serve it faithfully with zeal and enterprise in minor matters as well as those of greater magnitude.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1861, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa. Sold by C. W. Milhous, the druggist.

The very low rate of one cent per mile each way will be in effect on all parts of its system and the error through train service to Buffalo from Peoria, St. Louis, Louisville, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, Columbus and intermediate points via Cleveland, or via Toledo and Detroit has placed the "Big Four" in the lead. Full information will be cheerfully given by any agent upon application.

Keeping Pace With Competitors.

"So much has been heard of the improvements that our competitors are making," said a Pennsylvania Railway official, "by the press that one would think that our people are drifting along spending a little money as possible and our track was becoming an inferior one, but, on the contrary, more steel rail is being laid on the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh than in any former year since steel rails were placed on the market, heavier rails in every case taking the place of the lighter sixty pound rail." The Pittsburgh Post says: "All along the 117 miles of triple and quadruple tracks between Pittsburgh and Altoona the work of improvement is going on, and plans are being prepared for still greater improvements in the future. Recently over two hundred miles of new steel rail of the heaviest kind has been put down on all the tracks of the Pittsburgh division and new oak ties of the heaviest and solidest kind placed under them. Additional limestone ballast has been distributed over miles of the main tracks and the trackmen are now at work placing the stone in order and smoothing it up and at the same time looking after the alignment of the great iron paths over which the heaviest freight traffic that is moved by any one line on earth passes daily. But improvements on the present tracks are not the only ones to be observed. The new roadbed which does away with grades, curves and a narrow tunnel at Radeburg, will be ready for track-laying in a week or two, and the new work at Ninevah, which was stopped last year, has been resumed, and the contractors have a large force of men at work getting ready to make additional fills and cuts. At Lilly the same evidences of progress are visible, and here, where so much expensive work has been done over a year ago, hundreds of men will be kept busy this fall and winter making the necessary changes to improve the road."

Indigestion is often taken for consumption. The word consumption means wasting away, and dyspeptics often waste away as badly as consumptives.

The reason people waste away is because either they don't get enough to eat, or they don't digest what they do eat.

If the latter is your trouble, take Shaker Digestive Cordial. This will help you to digest your food and stop your loss of flesh.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is made from herb, barks and the juices of fruit by the well-known Shakers at Mount Lebanon. It possesses great tonic and digestive powers.

Shaker Digestive Cordial has cured many supposed consumptives (who were really dyspeptics), by simply helping their stomachs to digest their food thus giving them nourishment and new strength.

JOHNSON INNOCENT.

Convict Confesses to Killing a Man For Which Another is Serving Time.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 21.—Henry Smith, a negro convict in the Frankfort penitentiary, has in a written confession admitted that he, Ray and Patterson, two other negro convicts, killed Guard Pomp Ball in 1888 while a gang of convicts were being transferred from the penitentiary to work on the railroad in Rockcastle county.

Ball was killed and the three convicts above named swore that Morgan Johnson shot the shooting. Johnson was tried and sentenced for life, and is yet in prison.

THE USEFUL GIRAFFE.

Employed to Get Down Balls That Had Lodged in the Roof Gutter.

"Good natured?" said the old circus man. "Why, the best in the world. When the old man's boy used to get a baseball lodged in a gutter at the eaves of the house—this was when we were off the road in winter quarters—he never used to get out at the scuttle and climb down the roof and take the risk of falling off and breaking his neck to get it. He used to go to the barn and get out the giraffe. The old 18 footer would trot along after the boy—he knew what was wanted—till they came to the house and then walk along the side looking down into the gutter as he went along until he came to the ball, and then he would pick it up and bend his head down and give it to the boy."

"One day when the youngster had thrown a ball up on the roof and had seen it roll down into the gutter he went as usual after the giraffe. When the giraffe looked along the gutter that day, there was no ball there. He took his nose out of the gutter and looked down at the boy in the yard with a large interrogation mark in each eye as much as to say:

"Sure it didn't roll off somewhere?"

"And the boy said 'Sure,' and then the giraffe looked again, but it wasn't there, and the giraffe so reported, with a solemn shake of the head, and was driven back to the barn."

"They wondered about this, for it was the first time the giraffe had ever failed to get the ball, and they knew it must be there, but it was soon explained. A day or two later there came a big rainstorm. Instead of running a big noisy stream as usual the tin water pipe from the roof ran just a little bit of a stream, and the water that should have run off in that way overflowed the gutters and dripped in a thin sheet against the side of the house. Then they knew why the giraffe couldn't find the ball. It had rolled down the water pipe."

New York Sun.

Not to Be Dunked.

The president of one of the leading eastern colleges was recently journeying toward New York and found himself in the same seat with an old man whose general appearance betokened the farmer. They soon fell into conversation, and after saying that he was on his first visit to the metropolis the farmer mentioned the name of the little village up among the hills of New Hampshire from which he came and remarked that he supposed his friend had never heard of it. "Oh, yes," said the man. "I was born there." Imagines his astonishment when the country man, after staring at him several seconds, exclaimed, "See here, I've heard all about you bunks fellers, and you can't get a chance to dunk me." So saying, he grabbed his carpetbag and, marching down the aisle, took a seat on the other side of the car.—New York Times.

It Was a Lucrative Trade.

The wife of a minister in Cincinnati traded a barrel of his old sermons not long ago for a new bread pan. The next spring the rag man came around again and asked if she had any more sermons to sell.

"Why do you want sermons?"

"Because I did so well with those I got here a year ago. I got sick in the summer, and a preacher in the country boarded me and my horse three months for that barrel of sermons, and he has since got a great reputation as a preacher up there. I will give you 5 cents a pound for all you have got."—Chicago Record.

John E. McLean's Great Newspaper.

Without a single exception, there is beyond doubt no greater or more popular newspaper in the United States than the Cincinnati Enquirer; or a more successful publisher than its proprietor, Mr. John E. McLean. The old-time prices for the Daily Enquirer have been maintained, and its circulation largely increased each year; hard times and cheaper journals failing to arrest its onward march and high appreciation of the public for its true worth and merit.

The Weekly Enquirer at beginning of the campaign year was offered at 50 cents a year, and its circulation increased by the addition of over 200,000 new subscribers; the most substantial and coveted testimonial a publisher could desire.

When asked for the secret of such success, Mr. McLean frankly answers: The Enquirer has no opinions to force upon its patrons, it simply prints the facts and tells the truth that the reader may form his own opinions. By maintaining the price of the paper, more news and greater variety can be furnished, and every class of business interests catered to, which a cheaper journal cannot afford.

The very liberal support given the Enquirer by the public at large, makes incumbent upon the management to serve it faithfully with zeal and enterprise in minor matters as well as those of greater magnitude.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1861, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 107th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, Henry Steinberger, Allentown, Pa. Sold by C. W. Milhouse, the druggist.

Keeping Pace With Competitors.

"So much has been heard of the improvements that our competitors are making," said a Pennsylvania Railway official, "by the press that one would think that our people are drifting along spending a little money as possible and our track was becoming an inferior one, but, on the contrary, more steel rail is being laid on the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh than in any former year since steel rails were placed on the market, heavier rails in every case taking the place of the lighter sixty pound rail." The Pittsburgh Post says: "All along the 117 miles of triple and quadruple tracks between Pittsburgh and Altoona the work of improvement is going on, and plans are being prepared for still greater improvements in the future. Recently over two hundred miles of new steel rail of the heaviest kind has been put down on all the tracks of the Pittsburgh division and new oak ties of the heaviest and solidest kind placed under them. Additional limestone ballast has been distributed over miles of the main tracks and the trackmen are now at work placing the stone in order and smoothing it up and at the same time looking after the alignment of the great iron paths over which the heaviest freight traffic that is moved by any one line on earth passes daily. But improvements on the present tracks are not the only ones to be observed. The new roadbed which does away with grades, curves and a narrow tunnel at Radeburg, will be ready for track-laying in a week or two, and the new work at Ninevah, which was stopped last year, has been resumed, and the contractors have a large force of men at work getting ready to make additional fills and cuts. At Lilly the same evidences of progress are visible, and here, where so much expensive work has been done over a year ago, hundreds of men will be kept busy this fall and winter making the necessary changes to improve the road."

Joshua Colburn, John T. Henderson and John Dixon have been employed to keep the new brick streets clean. They are good men and will look well after their duty.

Indigestion is often taken for consumption. The word consumption means wasting away, and dyspeptics often waste away as badly as consumptives.

The reason people waste away is because either they don't get enough to eat, or they don't digest what they do eat.

If the latter is your trouble, take Shaker Digestive Cordial. This will help you to digest your food and stop your loss of flesh.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is made from herb, barks and the juices of fruit by the well-known Shakers at Mount Lebanon. It possesses great tonic and digestive powers.

Shaker Digestive Cordial has cured many supposed consumptives (who were really dyspeptics), by simply helping their stomachs to digest their food thus giving them nourishment and new strength.

Sold by druggists. Trial bottle 10 cents.

JOHNSON INNOCENT.

Convict Confesses to Killing a Man For Which Another Is Serving Time.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 21.—Henry Smith, a negro convict in the Frankfort penitentiary, has in a written confession admitted that he, Ray and Patterson, two other negro convicts, killed Guard Pump Ball in 1888 while a gang of convicts were being transferred from the penitentiary to work on the railroad in Rockcastle county.

Ball was killed and the three convicts above named swore that Morgan Johnson did the shooting. Johnson was tried and sentenced for life, and is yet in prison.

THE USEFUL GIRAFFE.

Employed to Get Down Balls That Had Lodged in the Roof Gutter.

"Good natured!" said the old circus man. "Why, the best in the world. When the old man's boy used to get a baseball lodged in a gutter at the eaves of the house—this was when we were off the road in winter quarters—he never used to get out at the scuttle and climb down the roof and take the risk of falling off and breaking his neck to get it. He used to go to the barn and get out the giraffe. The old 18 footer would trot along after the boy—he knew what was wanted—till they came to the house and then walk along the side looking down into the gutter as he went along until he came to the ball, and then he would pick it up and bend his head down and give it to the boy."

"One day when the youngster had thrown a ball up on the roof and had seen it roll down into the gutter he went as usual after the giraffe. When the giraffe looked along the gutter that day, there was no ball there. He took his nose out of the gutter and looked down at the boy in the yard with a large interrogation mark in each eye as much as to say:

"Sure it didn't roll off somewhere?"

"And the boy said 'Sure,' and then the giraffe looked again, but it wasn't there, and the giraffe so reported, with a solemn shake of the head, and was driven back to the barn."

"They wondered about this, for it was the first time the giraffe had ever failed to get the ball, and they knew it must be there, but it was soon explained. A day or two later there came a big rainstorm. Instead of running a big noisy stream as usual the tin water pipe from the roof ran just a little bit of a stream, and the water that should have run off in that way overflowed the gutters and dripped in a thin sheet against the side of the house. Then they knew why the giraffe couldn't find the ball. It had rolled down the water pipe."

Not to Be Banked.

The president of one of the leading eastern colleges was recently journeying toward New York and found himself in the same seat with an old man whose general appearance betokened the farmer. They saying that he was on his first visit to the metropolis the farmer mentioned the name of the little village up among the hills of New Hampshire from which he came and remarked that he supposed his friend had never heard of it. "Oh, yes," said the man. "I was born there." Imagine his astonishment when the country man, after staring at him several seconds, exclaimed: "See here, I've heard all about you bankers folks, and you can't get a chance to bunk me." So saying, he grabbed his carpetbag and, marching down the aisle, took a seat on the other side of the car.—New York Times.

It Was a Lucrative Trade.

The wife of a minister in Cincinnati traded a barrel of his old sermons not long ago for a new bread pan. The next spring the rag man came around again and asked if she had any more sermons to sell.

"Why do you want sermons?"

"Because I did so well with those I got here a year ago. I got sick in the summer, and a preacher in the country boarded me and my horse three months for that barrel of sermons, and he has since got a great reputation as a preacher up there. I will give you 5 cents a pound for all you have got."—Chicago Record.
